

This tecnology should not be allowed. It will do harm to the Ham radio community that can not be repaired. This community has done so much to help in times of emergency, I can't understand how the FCC would allow a technology that would destroy this. We need the Ham community now more than ever since 9/11.....